

WARNING: Your home can be hazardous to your family's health.

Some of the greatest dangers to your children's health and safety lurk in a place you'd never expect. Home hazards such as peeling lead paint, mold, and cockroaches are related causes of many childhood illnesses, including lead poisoning and asthma. But there are ways you can keep your children safe and healthy.

HUD's Healthy Homes Initiative can give you the information you need to protect your family from housing-related health and safety dangers, so you and your children can breathe easier.
